

Michal Rezler

Od: Michael Hamann [michael@content-space.de] Odesláno: 24. března 2011 0:55
Komu: rezlemic
Předmět: Re: DokuWiki - JQuery rewrite

Hi Michal,

Excerpts from rezlemic's message of 2011-03-23 11:27:20 +0100:

> I have merged the jQuery rewrite branch with master branch of the > whole project. I have tested it then and it seems to be OK. What > should I do now? Should I send a pull request over github or are you > going to test it atfirst only in my repository? If you like my work I > have done, I would like to continue in the rewrite process. My > repository is available on <https://github.com/rezlemic/dokuwiki-jQuery>.

I've just played around with it and it seems to work. There is just one tiny piece I've noticed: when I'm moving the internal link wizard previously the cursor changed to a "move" cross indicating that I'm moving it, now it remains unchanged. I think it might even be good to make it a "move" cross right away. I think before a merge the rewrite should be complete and additionally we are currently preparing the next (April) release so I don't think merging it right now makes sense. If it is clear that the rewrite will be soon finished we can however merge the code right after the release so new JavaScript code can use jQuery.

I've also added a comment on GitHub on your most recent commit, if you don't mind I'll also review your following commits and add comments whenever I think there is something that could be improved so we can discuss it directly in the context of the commit.

Regards,
Michael