Does "select an existing file" mean select something in the file entry table view?

If I click on an existing file in the "table view" part of the FSB, then ctrl+V does nothing. Which is what I expect.

I don't see this necessarily as a bug. Like kpouer, I think you should need to click in the file input field to give focus to it before ctrl-V will do anything.

However, I thought I'd test patch #527, which claims to "fix" this, but the behavior with respect to this bug seems to be the same even after trying the patch.
